Dear Participant:

Arthur Roedel

In 1986, the Mayor's Task Force on Substance Abuse challenged our community to reduce drug and alcohol use, especially among youth, through the South Brunswick Municipal Alliance Against Substance Abuse. With the support of the Alliance, the goal of the Healthy Communities – Healthy Youth Assets Initiative is for the South Brunswick community to build on its strengths and provide a healthy environment where youth thrive and substance abuse is prevented.

The annual Charlene J. Austin Community Unity Day brings together children, teens and adults to build the feeling of community and to display the numerous strengths of South Brunswick, including asset building resources.

Community organizations are encouraged to display their contribution to the strengths of our community by distributing information about their organization and providing an asset building activity and/or information at their booth. Please contact Sue Nissenblatt at healthyyouthassets@sbtnj.net for additional information on asset building. Non-profit community groups may also have a fundraising activity for their organization at their table.
